UN Says Reds Hold Back 3,404 War Captives

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The U. N. Command today charged the Communists held back 3,404 Allied war captives—including 944 Americans—and demanded a prompt accounting for each man.

The chief of the Allied delegation to the Korean Armistice Commission told newsmen the Reds had better account for the missing men — "or else." He did not amplify.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan turned over a carefully documented list to the Reds at an 80 minute meeting of the armistice commission. He warned the Communist officers:

"We now demand that you return these people to us or account to us for each of these individuals... we demand prompt action."

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The U. N. Command today accused the Communists of holding back 3,404 Allied war captives, including 944 Americans, and demanded a prompt accounting for all of them "or else."

"We now demand that you return these people to us or account to us for each of these individuals," the chief Allied delegate to the Korean Armistice Commission told the Communists.

"We demand prompt action," he added.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan turned over a carefully documented list to the Reds at a 1 hour and 26 minute meeting of the commission.

Later he told newsmen the Reds must give an accounting "or else." He did not amplify.

He said the list of missing prisoners "includes only the names of people who spoke or were referred to over Communist radio broadcasts, were listed by the Reds as captives, wrote letters from North Korean camps or were seen 'in stockades'."

The Far East Command said the list would not be released here, but in Washington. There, officials said they were doing all they could to speed release of the American names, but the list might not be available for two days.

The Communists said they reserved "the right to comment later," then countered with a demand for the return of 27,000 North Koreans released from Allied camps last June on orders from South Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

Byrna, dismissing the Red demand as "a blast," told his armistice commission counterpart:

"It is self evident we are not forcibly holding these people."

He told the Reds the U. N. list covered only men known to have been captured, who were not repatriated during Operation Big Switch, which ended Sunday.

"None of these people have been reported by you as having escaped or died," Bryan added.

The list, in addition to the Americans, included 2,410 South Koreans, 19 British, 9 Australians, 8 South Africans, 3 Canadians, 3 Belgians, 5 Turks, 2 Colombians and 1 Greek.

French Crack
Down on Tax
Dodgers

PARIS (UP) — France cracked down hard today on the country's rich tax-dodgers and the finance ministry announced that results were spectacular.

The move came as Premier Joseph Laniel's cabinet met to cut the "fat" from government operations, including a reduction in military expenditures in Communist-threatened Indo-China and at home.

Before chopping operations started, the budget totaled $10,172,000,000. Laniel's ministers hoped to reduce it by some $623,540,000. Such a slash would reduce by one-fourth the estimated 1954 budget deficit of $2,692,304,000.

The finance ministry gave no figures and named none of the big tax-dodgers caught in its fiscal dragnet. But it stressed that the drive to make the rich pay up was designed to replace revenue losses caused by sales tax reductions. The sales tax cuts sparked the government's campaign to reduce retail prices on meat and other items in the average housewife's market basket.

Finance Minister Edgar Faure sent his internal revenue agents out to the spots where the wealthy gather, and told them to check up on the flashy cars, expensive yachts and free spenders.

"Find out who owns the cars and yachts and who picks up the big checks," he said.

The cabinet hoped to cut spending as well as raise income.

After age 45 almost all people have trouble with their eyesight.

Pole Truce Member Given Asylum

SEOUL (AP) — A Polish member of a neutral nations truce inspection team in South Korea today fled from his Iron Curtain countrymen and was given political asylum by an American air base commander, the U. S. Army announced.

The Pole made his dramatic break as an airplane was warming up to take his inspection team back to North Korea.

"It's my last chance," the Pole told American officers.

The army identified the man as Jan Haddukiewicz, 28, a civilian interpreter with a neutral nations inspection team at Kangnung, on Korea's east coast.

The army said the Pole and other members of his team of Poles, Czechs, Swedes and Swiss, had been at Kangnung since Aug. 24. Haddukiewicz was standing on the Kangkung airfield with other members of the truce team today as an airplane was warming up to take the team back to North Korea.

The army said the Pole went to an American officer attached to the unit inspection team, Maj. Edward Moran, Westport, Md., and said he was "afraid" to go back to Communist control and did not wish to return.

Good Progress in State Cotton Picking

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Agriculture Department's weekly crop bulletin said today that good progress is being made in picking of early cotton.

Swing in all counties by Sept. 15, harvest probably will be in full swing in all counties by Sept. 15.

Late cotton continues to have good growth in areas that are not too dry the report added.

Local showers during the seven-day period ended at noon yesterday were of some benefit to late feed crops in a number of counties, but many fields of corn and hay were damaged so severely by the drought that they will not show much improvement.

Rice prospects were reported generally favorable in most areas. Good yields are being obtained on early rice, and the report said that the harvest soon would be in full swing.

Dean Will Be Remembered as the General Who Took a Gun and Showed the Boys How

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — You don't have to meet a man in this world to learn something from him.

I never met Maj. Gen. William Dean. I got to Korea late in July 1950, a few days after he was reported missing in combat. This I have always regretted. I would like to have seen him in action.

He is free again now, after nearly three years in enemy prison camps. Although I never met him personally he has enriched my life by teaching me two things:

1. Don't sell faith short.

2. A man's example lives beyond his presence.

When I first reached Korea, Gen. Dean's 24th Infantry Division was still retreating after a series of confused but magnificent delaying stands to hold up an overwhelming North Korean army that, had it

New Hurricane Formed Near Bahamas

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — Hurricane "Dolly," the season's fourth, turned up southeast of the Bahamas today and headed in a west-northwest direction with winds of 95 miles an hour.

She was roaring along at 20 miles an hour — express train speed for a tropical storm — and the storm center was expected to pass in the vicinity of Turks Island in the lower Bahamas group this afternoon.

The Miami weather bureau in a 10 a. m. EST advisory called it a small hurricane but warned that its winds — 95 miles an hour in a small area northeast of center — may increase in intensity.

The weather bureau said also that the storm may slow down, another indication usually that winds are building up power.

The hurricane was expected to smash into the southeastern Bahamas tonight and all interests on land and sea in that vicinity were warned to be on guard. Gales were whipping the ocean for 75 miles in a big semi-circle northeast of the storm center.

"The entire Bahama group should be on the alert," the weather bureau warned.

The disturbance was first discovered yesterday as an easterly wave, an atmospheric condition that often is the prelude to a full blown hurricane. A hurricane hunter plane, sent out by the navy, first gave Dolly the distinction of being in the hurricane class.

Boy Scouts to Plan Campaign for Funds

Leaders of the Hope Boy Scout Finance Campaign for this Fall will meet Wednesday night at the First Methodist Church at 7:30. This announcement was received today from Ray Turner, District Finance Chairman for the Piney Woods District, Caddo Area Council, B.S.A.

Leaders for the Hope campaign, as announced by Mr. Turner are: General Chairman, Syvelle Burke; Chairman of the Prospects list committee, Royce Weisenberger, Sr.; Chairman of the Breakfast committee, C. V. Nunn, Jr., with Gene Smith in charge of physical arrangements; Chairman of the Audit committee, Kihard Young and Cecil O'Steen; Special Gifts committee, J. L. Lieblich and Frank McLarty; Fred Gresham and Frank Douglas have also been instrumental in the organization.

Anzus Treaty Hailed by Dulles as a Warning

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the Australian-New Zealand-United States defense pact is a clear warning to any aggressor that the three treaty powers will defend themselves.

In opening remarks to delegates of the Anzus treaty council, Dulles said the meeting had "only one supreme purpose — that of contributing to the preservation of peace" in the Pacific.

The meeting of Pacific defense problems has been held under a mutual security pact signed by the three nations in 1952. It was the first such conference among the Pacific allies since the Korean truce, and the first attended by members of the Eisenhower administration.

Dulles, Australian foreign minister Richard G. Casey and New Zealand foreign minister T. Clifton Webb opened the meeting at 10:15 a. m. The three, who make up the Anzus council, were flanked by top diplomatic and military representatives. After each foreign minister had made a public statement, the conference room doors closed for the first secret session of the council.

Dulles recalled a statement he made in a St. Louis speech last week that if events are likely which will "lead us to fight we should make clear our intention in advance; then we shall probably not have to fight."

"This is the feeling which underlies this Anzus treaty," Dulles said. "I feel confident that this treaty and like treaties in the Pacific and elsewhere will achieve our basic purpose of a just and durable peace."

Casey said there can be "no true peace in the Pacific" while Korea remains divided and while "insurgents" continue their activities in Indo-China and Malaya. He stressed that the Anzus council meeting was to plan for peace and stability — it "is not a meeting to plan for war."

Webb, recalling the 1941 Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, said the Anzus pact is "an important bulwark of peace in the Pacific." But he said the "threat of overt aggression is ever present" until peace and stability are restored in southeast Asia.

Besides studying the Communist threat and reviewing military reports the conference had other work planned.

Discussion also was scheduled on the troublesome issue of "consultative relationships between the Anzus nations and other countries and security arrangements covering the Pacific and Southeast Asia."

Mt. Ida Stations
Robbed of $1,900

MOUNT IDA (AP) — Three men held up and kidnapped operators of two service stations here early today. Sheriff Wilburn Tidwell said around $1,900 was stolen.

Tidwell said an armed man accosted Elmer Snyder as the latter was closing his station. The robber forced Snyder to hand over the day's receipts and then marched him to an automobile parked near the station. The robber placed a sack over Snyder's head.

Snyder estimated that he and his captor waited a half hour before they were joined by Len Fryer, operator of the second station, and two men who had held him up.

The men also placed a sack over Fryer's head. The party drove to adjoining Garland County, where Snyder and Fryer were put out of the automobile on a country road. They were not harmed.

Tidwell said the robbers made an effort with a telephone call to lure Tom O'Neal into opening up an ice house he operates. O'Neal was ill and refused to re-open the ice house.

Adenauer Seeks to End German, French Troubles

BOON, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's No. 1 deputy called today for a quick solution of German-French differences to pave the way for a united Europe "based on the permanent friendship of our two countries."

Dr. Heinrich von Brentano said as a first step the two powers should arrange a "real European solution" to the Saar question.

"This is a pre-condition for the settlement of French-German differences," the parliamentary leader of Adenauer's powerful Christian Democratic Party said.

Brentano told a group of foreign correspondents that Adenauer's impressive election victory "will give new impetus to the plan for a United States of Europe."

"I have the hope that the meeting of the six West European foreign ministers in The Hague in October will take definite action on the constitution for a united Europe," he said.

A champion of European unity, Brentano is the likely candidate for the post of foreign minister, which Adenauer is giving up.

Discussing the Christian Democratic plans to form a new government, Brentano said the 77-year-old Adenauer will give up the post of foreign minister so he can concentrate on top policy decisions.

British Launch Fired on at Hong Kong

LONDON (AP) — The admiralty said a British naval launch was fired on in Hong Kong waters today and that casualties were suffered.

The terse admiralty communique did not identify the attacking force.

A British destroyer was ordered out to remove the wounded sailors, the communique said.

The admiralty announcement gave this report:

"H. R. Motor Launch 1323, a vessel of the Hong Kong local defense force, reports having been fired on early this morning, as a result of which she sustained casualties."

The destroyer H. M. S. Concord has been ordered to embark the casualties and bring them to Hong Kong.

"Further information will be released as it becomes available and next of kin of casualties will be informed."

An admiralty spokesman said the launch has a displacement of about 50 tons. First messages received from Hong Kong did not indicate how many men were aboard.

The 72-foot motor launch normally carries a crew of 14. She was built for seaward defense.

Boats of this class are armed with one three-pounder or one 40 mm gun, plus 20 mm anti-aircraft gun.

The destroyer Concord, which raced to the scene, was fired on herself by Red Chinese batteries in August 1950, in the approaches to Hong Kong. She was not damaged.

Wreck Victims Reported to Be Better

Two youths injured in an auto accident south of Hope last Saturday night regained consciousness Tuesday and were reported some better by Julia Chester Hospital attendants here.

Glendon Nichols, Stamps, driver of one of the vehicles involved, is completely conscious and was reportedly very much improved. However, he is scheduled to undergo surgery Thursday.

Thomas Moses, Hope youth and driver of the other car, is still in a dazed condition, but is conscious much of the time. Both youngsters sustained severe head injuries besides broken limbs.

Ex-Senator
Dies in Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — George Allison Wilson, 69, whose long political career included two terms as Iowa governor and one as U. S. senator, died last night.

Cause of death was listed as a malignant tumor of the throat, a recurrence of an old tumor for which Wilson had undergone operations in 1944, while a member of the Senate. His health had been precarious since the 1944 operations.

While in the Senate, Wilson was a Republican member of the Agriculture, Armed Services and Small Business committees. He was defeated in his bid for re-election in 1948 by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa).

State Cotton Crop Outlook Boosted 4%

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The cotton production estimate for Arkansas has been boosted mainly because of favorable weather. Miles McPeak, statistician for the Federal State Crop Reporting Service, said yesterday.

McPeak said a Department of Agriculture estimate for Arkansas 1953 cotton production as of Sept. 1 was 1,849,000 acres with a production of 1,275,000 bales.

On Aug. 1, the estimate was 1,836,000 acres and 1,225,000 bales, he said.

McPeak said favorable weather kept insect infestations to minimum and accelerated maturity of late cotton.

The latest Arkansas estimate was contained in a USDA forecast issued yesterday which sets nationwide cotton production at 15,159,000 bales this year. This figure would be a surplus and legally requires a grower referendum on federal marketing quotas.

Oklahomans Like New Divorce Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A new law making incompability grounds for divorce finds Oklahomans quick to grasp the opportunity.

This is disclosed in the rash of petitions which cite the new grounds, permitting decrees without the lengthy bill of particulars common to such suits.

Why, the new divorce suits are almost friendly, courteous officials observed.

Autos Sideswipe on High Crossing

Two automobiles were damaged shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday when they sideswiped on the Missouri Pacific Railway crossing on Washington Street.

The crossing is so high that approaching cars cannot see across the tracks. One car was driven by H. V. Howe and the other by Mrs. E. R. Praywell, investigating City Police said.

Welfare Dept. to Probe Car Buying

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Welfare Board says it's going to look into welfare cases in which relief money is used to buy or operate automobiles.

Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said yesterday the department can't prevent aid recipients from owning cars. But he said he was going to ask the welfare board at its Sept. 25 meeting to consider new policies in connection with automobiles.

He said he will ask the board to determine the necessity for the vehicles and the expenditure of funds for them.

Also at the Sept. 25 session Moss said, the board will discuss removal of welfare aid from persons who have farming operations. He added the board will be asked to delete these persons from the aid rolls during the period when they receive crop payments.

Youth Council
Plans Opening of Local Center

Young people interested in the development of the Hope Youth Center met yesterday to discuss plans for opening Friday night.

A committee composed of Jo Ann Cunningham, Huey Smith, John Barr, Junior Herndon, Lavonne Cooper and "Spankey" Mitchell directed a thorough cleaning of the Youth Center building, and set up plans for a dance to be held immediately following the Hope-Stamps football game. All Hope High students are invited to attend, along with students from the Stamps High School.

With such excellent cooperation from interested parties and the Hope High School Administration, the Recreation Commission is hoping to make this year the greatest year ever for the promotion of youth activity.

Adult sponsors are needed for Friday and Saturday nights and interested adults are urged to contact Charles Cough, Recreation Director.

No Trace of Man Sought
in Shooting

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP) — Police Chief Edgar Sullens today said no trace had been found of Basil K. Beck, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich., sought since an associate was shot to death by a patrolman here early yesterday.

Sullens said Beck was one of four prisoners who escaped from jail at Oswego, Kan., Monday after overpowering an undersheriff and a jailer.

One of the others, Russell Smith, 20, of Cherryvale Kan., was shot fatally by Truman Policeman Lloyd Hill at a service station here yesterday. Hill said Smith opened fire when the officer started to check on the automobile in which he was sitting.

The other two fugitives — Billy J. Goyer, 20, of Neodesha, Kan., and Dennis H. Gould, 17, of Odesa, Tex. — fled, but were recaptured later.

Beck left the other three members of the party near Tuckerman, Ark., before the shooting took place, Sullens said.

Goyer and Gould are held in jail at Newport. Sullens said they, Smith and Beck, stole an automobile there. He said they also stole cars at Oswego and at Joplin, Mo.

Eisenhower to Pick Jurist for High Court Post

WASHINGTON (UP) — Informed sources said today there is a good chance President Eisenhower will pick an eminent Republican jurist, rather than a political figure, to succeed Fred M. Vinson as chief justice of the United States.

Federal Circuit Judge John J. Parker of Charlotte, N. C., and Chief Justice Arthur T. Vandenberg of the New Jersey Supreme Court were mentioned as possible choices should Mr. Eisenhower decide to entrust the nation's highest judicial post to a man already on the bench.

Earlier speculation about a successor to Vinson, who died of a heart attack yesterday, has centered around Govs. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Earl Warren of California.

Sources close to the summer White House predicted Eisenhower would consult with Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., and Republican congressional leaders before announcing an appointment perhaps late this month.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower kept his own counsel today on his thinking about a jurist to succeed Fred M. Vinson as chief justice of the United States.

Staff personnel at the summer White House declined even to discuss possible successors to Vinson, who died of a heart attack in Washington early yesterday.

Speculation continued to center here on two men — Gov. Earl Warren of California who announced last week he wouldn't seek a fourth term in 1954, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

But Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary to the President, told newsmen Eisenhower's vacation headquarters would have absolutely no comment on reports dealing with those two men or any others mentioned as possible successors.

Presidential aides said yesterday there was no doubt the President would fly to Washington to attend funeral services for Vinson tomorrow.

There was no official announcement, however, and Snyder said last night he would have no word on Eisenhower's plans until today.

If the President was doing any talking to anyone about the most important appointment to comfort him since taking office, the staff said on hand here appeared to be completely in the dark about it.

A discussion was held as to whether to have night meetings in order that fathers could attend and participate more in the association. A tentative plan for a night meeting in October was decided upon.

Joe Amour, principal of Senior High School, made a brief talk regarding the work that might be done for the school through the Health and Safety committee.

Mrs. Frank Mason, principal of Junior High School, spoke briefly on her plans for the year.

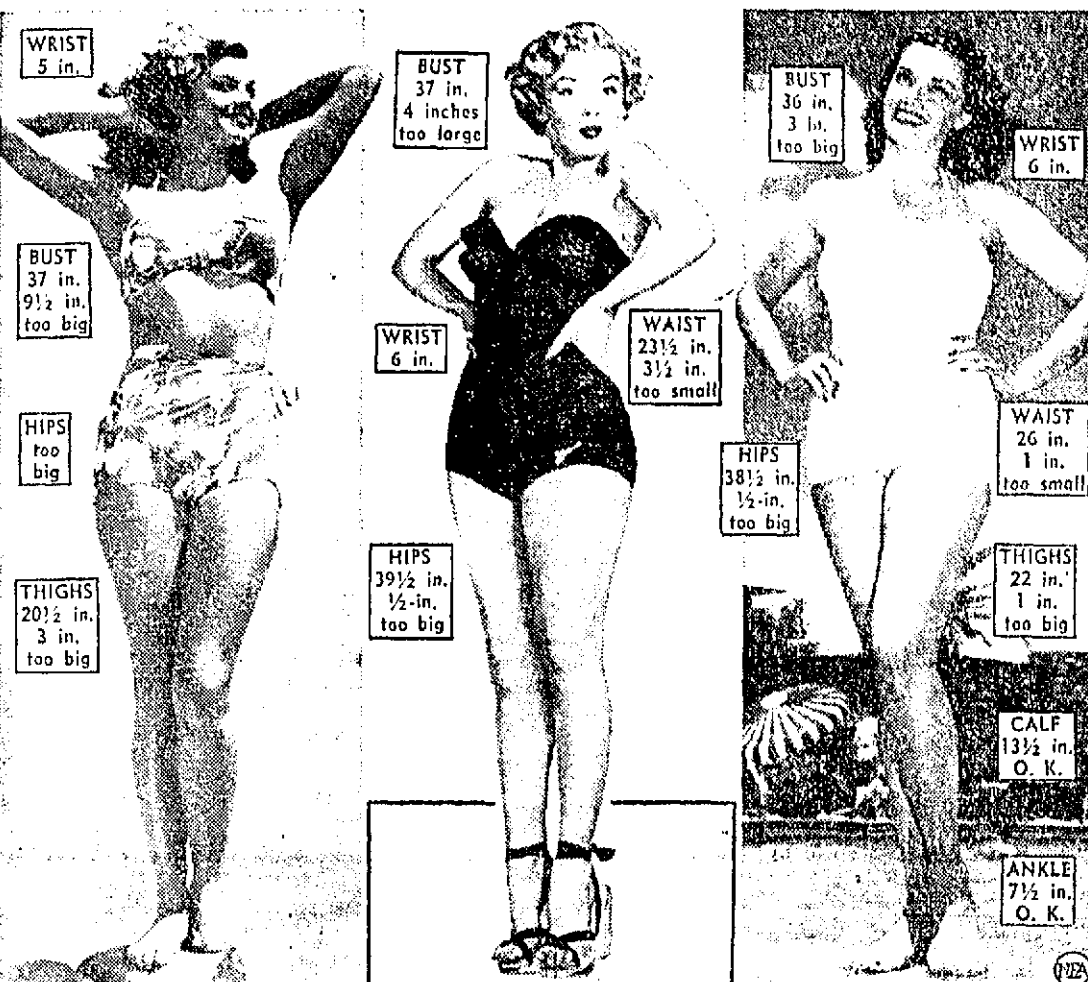

The meeting adjourned for a social period while refreshments were served by Mrs. Branch.

The first meeting of the association will be held September 10 at 3:30 p.m. All parents are urged to attend.

Circle 6 Meets With Mrs. Joe Jones
Circle 6 of the WSCS met Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Joe Jones with Mrs. J. C. Carlton as co-hostess.

ESTHER WILLIAMS MARILYN MONROE JANE RUSSELL
PIN-UPS FIGURES ARE OUT OF LINE—If you pin-up girls Esther Williams, Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell joined the WACs they'd have to whisk some inches off their much-publicized contours. As it shapes up, they don't measure down to the standards being set for the women in the armed forces—based on the circumference of the wrist. The WAC's new good-looking nannul gives this formula for Figures, Ideal, Military, Female: BUST: Multiply wrist size by 5 1/2. WAIST: multiply by 4 1/2. THIGH: by 2 1/2. CALF: by 2 1/2 and ANKLE 1 1/2. Hips should never be more than two inches larger than bust. Photo-diagram above shows how Hollywood's well-stacked stars don't stack up with WAC standards. La Monroe's thigh, calf, ankle figures were unavailable.

Mrs. George Murphy, leader, provided over the regular business session.

Mrs. James McFarly presented the program on "The Sower."

Individual cakes and cookies were served to the 12 members, one new member and one guest present.

Circle 1 of WSCS Meets Tuesday
Mrs. Lloyd Spencer and Mrs. C. Cook were hostesses to Circle 1 of the First Methodist Church Tuesday afternoon.

The opening prayer was given by Mrs. J. H. Arnold. A short business session was conducted by Mrs. P. H. Webb.

Mrs. J. H. Wiggins discussed "God's Gift of Out of Doors." A travel talk on the Palmiro Institute at Chihuahua, Mexico, and the McDonald Methodist Center at Humana, La., was given by Mrs. J. H. Perkins.

The home was decorated with cape Jasmine and zinnias.

Refreshments were served to 15 members, one new member, Mrs. Grace Jones, and one guest, Mrs. Hays, mother of Mrs. Spencer.

Coming and Going
Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sanford and Mrs. Grace Farmer of Dallas, Texas, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tillery and Weldon. Mr. Sanford and Mrs. Farmer are Mrs. Tillery's brother and sister.

DOROTHY DIX

Sweetheart in Japan

Dear Miss Dix: Garry, my boy friend, is in Japan and expects to be there for a year and a half. My mother likes him and raises no objection when I tell her we'd like to marry upon his return. Yet she does object — and strenuously — to my waiting for him, and not having other dates. I'm 17, and perfectly willing to wait for him for I love him dearly. Although I don't have a ring, we consider ourselves engaged. I don't want to hurt my mother, yet I simply can't force myself to go out on dates.

Accept Group Dates
Answer: There is much to be said on both sides; your mother feels that in view of your youth you shouldn't be sitting on the sidelines for 18 months while your friends are having fun, and you, of course, are completely taken up with the picture of a patient sweetheart waiting for her beloved. I do think you'd be better off if you went out occasionally on group dates.

Association with friends your own age will do much more for your social development than sitting at home all the time. Your young man stands a much greater chance of losing you through boredom, than through the pursuit of a normal social life. Don't single date, but do get out with the crowd, and with other girls. Your mother will just have to accept the idea that you consider yourself pledged to one boy, and she should be proud of your principles of fidelity at so young an age. Whatever you do, don't be moody or moony around the house, or Mom will be more than justified in her efforts to get you to go out.

Dear Miss Dix: We have been married 8 years and have three children. I think the dinner hour should be a time for a family get-together, but my husband doesn't agree. He bolts his dinner, then retires to the living room to listen to the radio, or read, until he falls asleep.

Answer: You are right in your efforts to make dinner time more than just another meal, but it looks as if it will take some convincing to have hubby come around to your views. Instead of arbitrarily insisting that he remain at the table with you and the children work the general conversation around to a point that will prove interesting to him by the time he's finished eating, he'll be much more inclined to remain at the table while a good story is in progress, than if stony silence prevails. Small children have many interesting experiences that should touch Dad's heart enough to hold his company.

Dear Miss Dix: My mother knows I have been going steady, but doesn't realize that the boy and I (both 18) are engaged. How can we tell her?

Answer: She certainly should have been kept informed of the progress of your romance, and should be consulted before you enter into a formal engagement. Tell her at your first opportunity.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

"KIT WAS in the apartment taking off her wet coat when the bell rang. It couldn't be Abby's no noon. It couldn't be Abby's no noon. It was Hugo, and Hugo knew, starting for Denfeld, he met Philip at the train and turned back. He took Kit by the shoulders in the small square, brightly lighted foyer. "Thank God," his face was white.

"Anger stirred in Kit. She didn't want his concern. He had lost his right to that three months ago. She freed herself, she and Abby, "Nice of you to be worried, Hugo, but no you see, I'm all right."

"His expression changed. She knew she had hurt him. Well, why not? He had hurt her, plenty. Why should she feel sorry?"

"He said, 'They collected the money? Tell me about it, Kit.' 'I will in five minutes. Go into the living room and sit down. I'm waiting and I've got to change.'"

"What she wanted to do was to go to bed and sleep for 24 hours. She felt drained, empty, had never been so exhausted in her life. She showered and dressed, putting on a gray flannel suit and a white silk shirt, and went to the phone and talked to her uncle. Philip's jubilation frightened her. He was being too sure.

"She gave Hugo a careful account of what had happened, clarifying her own mind as she did so. She was practically sure that the candy box had been collected by the people it was intended for. That it hadn't been happily snatched and that she hadn't dropped it by accident when she got that shove in the trip through the subway who hadn't seen anyone who was even vaguely familiar. Actually the 72nd St. platform, the downtown one, was the only place where it had been possible to see at all. She told Hugo about the fat man there, and the tall woman in the green raincoat. "It startled through my mind that it might be Eleanor Olsen—only it wasn't."

"Hugo was suddenly alert. "What was this woman on the 72nd St. platform like?"

"Kit frowned. "I didn't get a very good look at her, but I can tell you it wasn't Eleanor Olsen. Eleanor Olsen wouldn't be caught dead in such clothes—and my women were completely different. She had a lot of dyed yellow hair in one of those wild-man cuts coming under her hood, and the purse she dropped was strictly from a $1.08, and worn at that."

"Hugo said slowly: "I wouldn't know whether a raincoat was cheap or not, but a woman rather like the one you describe walked out through the lobby of the Hotel Bronson where Wilder is staying about 4:30 this afternoon. I was leaning in Green's with a client today and caught sight of Wilder at the bar. He had nothing much to do, and thought I'd talk along with him and see if anything gave. He went back to his hotel at 5:30, and upstairs to his room. I hung around in the lobby until almost 5."

"What made you notice your woman particularly?"

"Hugo said, 'I kept checking on everybody, and like you, the color of the raincoat caught my eye. Besides, the woman was tall and I looked every tall woman over, thinking of Eleanor Olsen.'"

"Well," Kit said, "I can tell you this, the woman in the green raincoat on the 72nd St. platform was not Eleanor Olsen. She glanced at the clock and got hurriedly to her feet. 'I don't want to leave Philip alone. I'm going to take the 7 o'clock train and I'll probably have trouble getting a cab on a night like this.' Hugo said he'd drive her up. 'You'll get there faster.' She hesitated and then agreed."

"She had driven up with George and Anita last Wednesday; the drive with Hugo was different. Then they hadn't known this and Hugo didn't speak more than half a dozen words after they hit the parkway. Rain was still coming down hard. Kit dozed from time to time, not with her head on Hugo's shoulder, came fully awake only when they pulled into the driveway in Denfeld."

"Afterwards there was always something dreamlike about that long night. The house seemed different. Their voices went on tip-toe through the hush while their own listened for the sound of a car, of Abby's voice."

"All attempt at concealment had been thrown aside. Mitman had been told. Philip said they had a telephone call on Thursday. "That call—her aunt's reaction was rather surprising. Her face went as gray as it could go under makeup and she all but fainted. 'I can't believe it,' she kept saying. 'I can't take it in.' She went upstairs at midnight. The rain kept on falling. The clock dragged its hands. Kit and Philip and Hugo kept an unceasing and restless vigil."

"The longest stretch was from 3 until the light began to come at 4:30."

"The light broadened and it was full day. The rain had finally stopped. They sat in the living room, people in a semi-circle, not speaking or moving. It was Philip who broke through the leaden gloom. He heard the sound first. Stumbling to his feet, he threw up a hand, his eyes wildly bright. "Listen," he said, "Listen."

"Kit heard it distinctly—the purring of a motor. The big living-room window commanded a view of the road beyond the sloping lawns. She went to the window. A car had drawn up in front of the hedge. They were running, all three of them, through the front door and out on to the terrace."

"A man was coming up the path carrying a burden. The burden was Abby. Her head hung down, dazedly, so did her arms and legs. Her eyes were closed. A shaft of light fell full on her face, chin, tilted to the sky. . . . The sight was too horrible to be borne. Philip didn't beat it. He toppled forward, went hurtling down the steps and landed on brick and stone at the strange man's feet."

"Abby wasn't dead. Her heart was beating faintly, but she was unconscious. Dr. Terry arrived less than 10 minutes after she was carried into the house and upstairs to her room and laid on her bed. Her face covered with blood. Her legs were covered with dirt and bits of twigs and leaf mould. Her stockings were ribbons, her sandals mangled. Her eyes remained closed."

"Mitman came hurrying in. She took Abby's pulse. 'Get me a washcloth, Catherine.'"

"Abby came out from under the redness, herself again, but so worn, so worn—no beauty. Blood still oozed from a cut on her forehead, another on her chin. Near the door the strange man went on talking to Hugo in a low voice. 'I was afraid she'd die on me.'"

"Mitman said to Kit, 'Give me some of that brandy in a small glass. I don't like her color.' They were trying to get the brandy through Abby's fisted lips when Dr. Terry walked in."

"The doctor took one look at Abby and went to the phone. The nurse, Lucy Barrett, had come to school with Abby and lived only a short distance away. She was there almost at once. Dr. Terry said that Abby had been heavily drugged. She was also suffering from shock and exposure. After that they were all excluded from the room and there was nothing to do but wait."

"Walter Rofe, the man who brought Abby home, told his story. Rofe was a paper salesman. He had got a very early start out of New York that morning, and because he had to stop at Danbury, he had taken the shortest through Denfeld. In the long stretch of woods beyond the town, in about the middle of it, his attention had been attracted by something glinting beneath a bank above the road. He thought at first that it was an animal, perhaps a deer that had been wounded. Getting out to investigate, he found Abby crouching around in a circle on her hands and knees, her face covered with blood. She was just barely conscious then. She kept mumbling, 'Haven't Thorne Road,' over and over. Rofe was already on Thorne Road, and looking at mud boxes, he had found the house just before he was going to turn back and search for a doctor, afraid that Abby would die if she didn't get help."

"Dr. Terry had insisted on Philip's lying down. Rofe showed them credentials, and said he would be at the Hotel Green in Danbury overnight. If they should want him. When he left Hugo went with him to examine the place where Abby had been found."

"Mitman phoned William, and Anita and George called and Kit talked to both of them. She didn't go into details. She simply said that Abby had been returned early that morning and that she was ill and in bed. George wanted to come up but Kit said no, and that she'd get in touch with him later. George was perceptive, he didn't bother her with questions, although quite clearly he was mystified."

Ceremony in Home Joins
Miss Langley — Bob Todd

Miss Rosana Langley became the bride of Bob G. Todd in a ceremony performed at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Harris Langley. Mr. Todd is the son of Mrs. Harvey Leonard Todd and the late Mr. Todd, of Audlene, Texas.

The Reverend Leonard Todd, Jr., a luncheon at the Lawson Hotel Sunday for out of town guests of the Langley-Todd wedding. The table held a central arrangement of white mums and tapers that carried out the bridal motif.

Covers were laid for Mrs. C. A. Hagans, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McKenzie, and Mrs. E. B. Bryson, Mary Beth and Ed, Mr. J. H. Langley and Johnny, Rev. and Mrs. Harvey Leonard Todd, Jr., of San Angelo, Texas, Mrs. Harvey Leonard Todd of Abilene, Texas, and Mrs. H. Hogar of Eastland, Texas.

The bride who entered on the scene of her father was radiantly lovely in her gown of white Chantilly lace over satin. An illusion yoke formed an off-shoulder effect and the bodice was fashioned to points in the front and back. Her fitted sleeves ended in calla lily points over her hands. Insets of pleated lace in the nylon tulle skirt swept to the back which ended in a chapel train. A seed pearl braid held the tiered finger tip bridal veil, and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid showered with satin ribbon tied with lilies of the valley. She wore a necklace of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and an heirloom hand drawn handkerchief.

Miss Alma Lois Ferrell was the bride's only attendant. She wore a heavenly blue nylon net over taffeta frock with a ballerina skirt and a matching hat and stole. She carried a crescent bouquet of yellow and blue carnations, tied with yellow satin ribbon.

John Harris Langley, Jr., brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride's mother wore a gown of aqua blue velvet and a corsage of sweetheart roses. Mrs. Todd, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black faille dress with black accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

A reception was held in the dining room of the Langley home. Five lighted white tapers in silver candle holders, interlaced with white carnations, satin bows and maiden hair fern on a reflector centered the bride's table which was covered with an imported white maderia cloth. The three tiered white wedding cake was embellished with hearts and roses, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and encircled with white carnations and fern.

Mrs. H. H. McKenzie and Mrs. E. B. Bryson, aunts of the bride, presided at the table. Matching flowers were used on the buffet. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. C. A. Hagans and Mrs. Jack Burchard.

Miss Mary Beth Bryson had charge of the bride's book.

Mrs. Todd traveled in an American beauty silk shantung dress with matching jacket. Her accessories were navy blue and she pinned an orchid at her shoulder.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Abilene, Texas, where the bridegroom is an instructor at Hardin-Simmons University.

The bride attended Hardin-Simmons University. Mr. Todd is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University.

Rehearsal Dinner
Fetes Bridal Couple

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McKenzie complimented Miss Rosana Langley and her fiance, Bob G. Todd with a rehearsal dinner Saturday evening in their home.

A three branched prism crystal chandelier holding white roses and burning white tapers tied with satin bows and miniature horse shoes and wedding bells added to the charm of the entrance hall. An artistic arrangement of white gladioli and carnations were placed on the living room mantle. The desk held a dainty bouquet of pink and white asters and white zinnias graced the coffee table.

The serving table was overlaid with an imported cutwork cloth and centered with white pom-pom mums, fern and lighted white tapers that formed a wedding ring. The buffet was decorated with white gladioli and mums in a silver container flanked by white tapers in matching holders. The guests were seated at small tables centered with a white taper in a silver holder. The bride's table held a white taper tied with a satin bow with tiny horse shoes and wedding bells attached. Her place was marked with a white carnation corsage.

Guests included the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Langley, Johnny Langley, Miss Alma Lois Ferrell, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Rignier, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lee, Mrs. W. L.

GOPs Believe Voters Favor McCarthy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some GOP leaders, convinced the voters' general look with favor on Sen. McCarthy's investigations of communism, intend to feature the Wisconsin Republican in some of next year's senatorial campaigns.

The Senate Republican Campaign Committee already has begun to line up ammunition against five Democratic senators it regards as best bets for displacement in the November, 1954 elections.

They are Senators Fear of Delaware, Douglas of Illinois, Gillette of Iowa, Humphrey of Minnesota and Murray of Montana.

A committee official who didn't want to be identified by name said that if present plans mature, McCarthy will be used in behalf of GOP candidates in some of these States.

McCarthy took an active role in the 1950 senatorial campaign in Maryland, which saw Sen. John M. Butler defeat the veteran Millard E. Tydings as a Democrat. A Senate elections subcommittee which investigated unanimously called it a "despicable, back street campaign" and criticized some of McCarthy's tactics.

McCarthy himself was re-elected to a six-year term last year. While he won handsily, he ran well behind the GP margins polled in Wisconsin by President Eisenhower and Gov. Walter J. Kohler Jr.

McCarthy, disclaiming any knowledge of committee plans, said he probably will make some political speeches next year but has no schedule.

The senator told reporters he had received 610 invitations for speeches since the first of the year, and that "many of these invitations came from members of Congress."

Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the Senate campaign group, said future plans have not yet jelled. But he left no doubt he regards McCarthy as a definite asset. Dirksen said that at a recent Illinois meeting, the crowd gave its greatest cheer to his mention of McCarthy's investigations.

As the situation stands, the Republicans may go into the campaign outnumbered by the Democrats in the Senate. Not counting Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) the count would be 48 Democrats and 47 Republicans. If Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio appoints a Democrat to succeed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Prisoner Escapes Forrest City Jail

FORREST CITY (AP) — A prisoner escaped from the St. Francis County Jail Sunday during or shortly before religious services for the inmates.

He was not missed until yesterday.

Sheriff Carl Campbell identified the fugitive as Arlie Davis, a Georgian, who was held on a charge of robbing a sailor. He had been bound over for grand jury action.

Campbell said Davis escaped unnoticed, apparently through a skylight, after the prisoners had been released from their cells to attend services in a hall. Campbell said one bar over the skylight was missing.

a bad law, and said he had failed to see it changed "as promised by the Republican candidate during the 1952 election campaign."

Overall, he told an AFL-CIO rally "There are signs of a return to the old philosophy that the object of government is to help big business."
